Construction at Muncy Valley Hospital and Divine Providence Hospital Begins

Harrisburg, PA, June 28, 2011. . . Alexander Building Construction Co. announced the start of construction for two Susquehanna Health System projects. Alexander will build a new 2-story addition and renovate the existing Skilled Nursing Unit at Muncy Valley Hospital in Muncy, PA. The enhancements will create a more resident and family-focused experience. The project includes a new dining room and a private family room added to the first floor and a larger physical therapy gym and living room in the second floor addition where residents and families will have more space to enjoy activities and services. Construction kicked off in April and is expected to be complete in October.

At Divine Providence Hospital, Williamsport, PA, Alexander is managing interior renovations to expand and relocate the Kathryn Candor Lundy Breast Health Center to a 13,350 s.f. area on the 1st Floor. The project also includes renovation/expansion of the existing Main Lobby area and corridor renovations. The new location will nearly double the space and provide easier access to patient support services. The new Breast Health Center will include six additional exam rooms and feature enhanced patient privacy and comforting amenities. Radiology, laboratory, cancer treatment and surgical services will be conveniently nearby. The renovation/expansion project started in January and is expected to be complete in August.

“Alexander is proud to be a part of improving the services that these two facilities offer to their communities,” says Rick Seitz, President. “Muncy Valley and Divine Providence provide crucial services to their patients and meeting their project goals is extremely important to us. Our construction team has recently completed projects at both Muncy Valley and Divine and I am confident these new projects will be just as successful.”
