Alexander Building Construction Co. completes new Main Access Facility at Three Mile Island Nuclear Generating Facility

Harrisburg, PA, October 26, 2009 . . . Alexander Building Construction announced that it completed a new construction project at the Three Mile Island Nuclear Generating Facility. The project included a new masonry and structural steel building that is now the main access control facility for the complex. It contains extensive mechanical and electrical work to support security equipment, cameras, telephone and data infrastructure. Alexander coordinated all construction activities at the project site and managed the safety regulations for the project.
