YOUNG SCHOLARS OF CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA CHARTER SCHOOL PHASE II

Alexander Building Construction Announces completion of project

STATE COLLEGE, PA (September 1, 2008) – Alexander Building Construction today announced that it has completed construction of Phase II of the Young Scholars of Central Pennsylvania Charter School in State College. This phased new construction of a primary education facility included management of all design, land development, and construction activities. The program included the wood-framed construction of over 18,000 SF of classrooms, offices, multipurpose room, conference room, kitchen and ‘flex’ spaces. An energy efficient building design was developed utilizing a ground source heat pump system. On-site green space has been maintained to provide spacious playground areas. The expansion allows the school to add 4 new classes increasing their education coverage to kindergarten through 7th grade.

ABOUT ALEXANDER: Alexander Building Construction Co. provides building contracting and construction management services for corporate, commercial and institutional clients building in central Pennsylvania. With a heritage of over 80 years, the company and its people bring a solid reputation for the delivery of reliable, cost-effective construction management services and for the ability to build the region’s largest, most complex structures. The firm possesses significant project experience in the construction of corporate office buildings, hospitals, retail buildings, K-12 schools, colleges/universities, correctional facilities, and mid- and high-rise residential towers.

ABOUT YSCP: Young Scholars of Central Pennsylvania (YSCP) Charter School is a unique, proactive alternative to traditional public education which provides an ideal “global learning” environment for the intellectual and social development of its students. YSCP focuses on two student constituencies: those whose native language is not American English during their transition into the American educational system and culture, and those native speakers of American English who wish to engage a curriculum which fosters a global perspective and promotes appreciation and understanding of world regions, cultures, and global issues.
